Interest, interest rates, payment of interest

7.5 The available balance on the Customer's account bears, as applicable, a credit and debit interest. Unless otherwise agreed in the Account Agreement or in a specific written agreement between the Parties, the credit interest rate and debit interest rate as set out in the Price List will apply. The credit interest rate and debit interest rate set out in the Price List are expressed as a percentage rate per annum and are calculated on the basis of the actual number of days in that month and a year of 360/365 days, as applicable for the respective currency (based on usual market practise) unless, otherwise agreed between the Parties in the Account Agreement or other written agreement.

7.6 The Bank credits interest to the account and debits interest from the account, as applicable, in the account currency.

7.7 The interest from funds on the Customer's account is cleared on the second (2nd) Business Day of the month following the month in which the interest accrued, and is payable on the first (1st) Business Day of the month following the month in which the interest accrued, unless otherwise agreed in the Account Agreement or other written agreement between the Parties.

7.8 The credit interest is calculated from an amount of a positive available balance on the Payment Account from and including the date the funds are made available to the account, but excluding the date they are withdrawn. Pending currency specific market conditions, the Reference Rate of a specific currency may be negative and in such case a credit interest computed may result in a negative amount, which shall be charged as a fee to a Payment Account and will be cleared as described in clause 7.7. Bank may set the limit (threshold) up to which it will not charge such fee.

7.9 The debit interest is calculated from an amount of negative balance from a period stated in this clause 7.9.

The Bank will charge

- (1) a debit interest on a debit position at a debit interest rate stipulated in the specific written agreement, if a

Customer's Payment Account registers an authorised negative balance (in line with a credit facility agreement), on its account; and/or

- (2) a default debit interest on a debit position at a default debit interest rate stipulated in the Price List or other specific written agreement, if a Customer's Payment Account registers an Excess,

The debit interest shall accrue on the amount of a negative balance on the account starting on a date on which the balance becomes negative to and including the date when the balance is zero or positive.

7.10 The Parties agree that the debit interest shall, in accordance with Section 1806 of the Civil Code, also accrue on the due amounts of unpaid interest. If the interest rate of the debit interest changes, the Bank has the right to apply the default interest at the new rate as of the effective date of such a change.

7.11 The amount of due and payable debit interest by the Customer to the Bank will be capitalised on a monthly basis on the last day of the respective calendar month and may become an Excess.

8. Default remedies

9.7 In case of a Payment Transaction initiated by the Payee, the Bank shall not be liable to the Customer as the Payor under clause 9.6 above, unless the Payee's payment services provider fulfilled its obligation to duly transmit the Payment Transaction to the Bank.

9.8 Where the Bank as the Payor's payment service provider is liable under clause 9.5 above, the Bank shall refund to the Customer the amount of the non-executed or defective Payment Transaction without undue delay and, where applicable in accordance with the Payment Act Systems, restore the debited Payment Account to the state in which it would have been, if the defective Payment Transaction had not taken place. This does not apply, if the Parties agree that the Bank will execute or finalize the Payment Transaction in accordance with Customer's instruction.

9.9 Where the Bank as the Payee's payment service provider is liable under clause 9.6 above, the Bank shall immediately place the amount of the Payment Transaction at the Customer's disposal and, where applicable, credit the corresponding amount to the Customer's account.

9.10 The Bank shall have no liability whatsoever in connection with the market fluctuation regarding exchange rates applied to Payment Transaction nor changes in the market interest rates and may upon such events change its conditions without prior informing the Customer of such change.

9.11 In the event of an unauthorized Payment Transaction, the Bank shall immediately refund to the Customer the amount thereof and in any event no later than by the end of the following Business Day, after noting or being notified of the Payment Transaction (except where the Bank has reasonable grounds for suspecting fraud and communicates those grounds to the relevant national authority in writing) and, where applicable, restore the debited payment Account to the state in which it would have been had such Payment Transaction not taken place, unless (i) the Customer has not notified the Bank of the unauthorized Payment Transaction within the thirty (30) day period; or (ii) the Customer has incurred the unauthorized Payment Transaction as a result of its own fault or breach of any of its obligations or duties under these GTC, any Specific Agreement, any Payment Account, Payment Transaction, or Related Service.
